

AI?

Is AI a friend, a foe, or something between?

01

What is AI?

Artificial intelligence is where computer systems are able to perform more difficult tasks which are normally done by a human

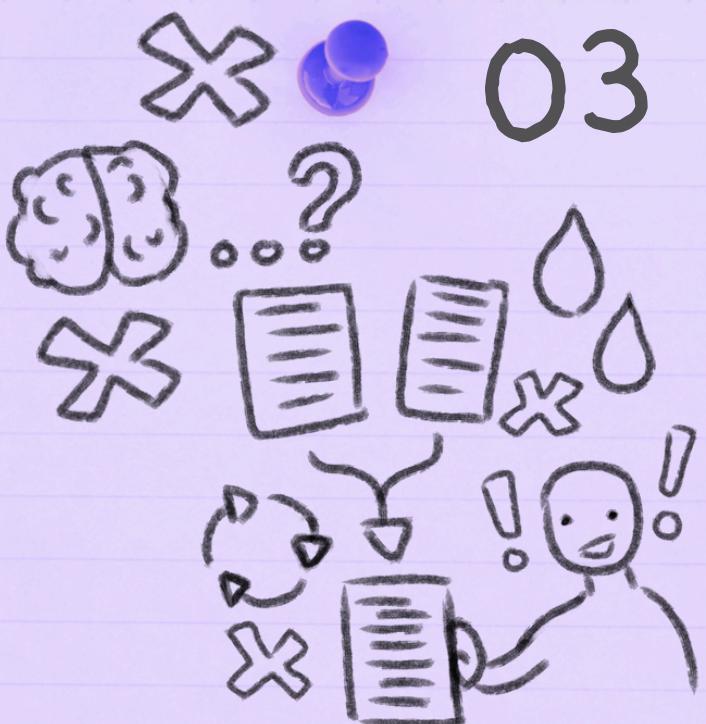

Benefits of AI

- AI is able to automate tasks that are repetitive tasks for us and allow us to focus on more important tasks which are not as tedious
- AI aids with decision making at a much faster pace especially if we become indecisive at a particular decision as humans
- AI also helps improve medical treatments and procedures e.g. radiosurgery

Disadvantages of AI

- A lack of human intelligence and critical thinking skills this limits AI to have the ability to understand context
- AI has a limited scope when it comes to designing and adapting to newer situations
- The over-reliance on AI could lead to reduced human interaction when it comes to decision making
